I completely agree and hopefully this brings more awareness to how shady this particular competition really was. I'm hoping that someone from the organization will leak information and shed some light on this issue.

awareness to how shady this particular competition really was. I'm hoping that someone from the organization will leak information and shed some light on this issue. And if not hopefully your actions will grab someones attention an you can speak publicly about it. Its just such a disappointment to lose faith in something you've dreamed of for so long. But im sending you so many best wishes and please keep in touch:)
